They were so enthusiastic in their demands that he remain president that he was forced to submit. Secretary Fabian Stolaroff tendered his resignation, the great demands of the office makes on his time making his more necessary. His resignation was accepted, and Roger Brown was elected to the office. H. R. Conn, of Elliott-Garrett company, was elected to membership.

A number of talks were made on the subject of El Paso in connection with the recent fair and congress. George H. Clements, of the chamber of commerce publicity department, had a display of clippings from papers all over the country, showing about ten mentions of the publicity secured for El Paso. The display totaled about 4000 columns. M. P. Carlock and Arthur Hooker, secretary of the International Irrigation congress, spoke. President Rowlands made a brief talk on the advantage of local merchants featuring nationally advertised articles.

The stereoscopic address of the meeting was "Cooperation of the dealer with the manufacturer," by W. P. Overheim. The paper was read by Roger Brown.

Under the personal direction of Walter Harvey Weed diamond drill work has been started on the property of the Santa Rita Development Company at Santa Rita, New Mexico. One chum drill is on the ground and two more are now enroute.

NOTE—Walter Harvey Weed is author of "The Copper Handbook," Former Geologist in the U. S. Geological Survey, 1887-1898. Member Institution of Mining and Metallurgy of America, Fellow Geological Society of America, Member American Institute of Mining Engineers, Etc.

Walter Harvey Weed, who is Consulting Engineer and Geologist of the Company, will remain at the property during the entire process of drilling. He is ably assisted by H. W. Loomis, Mine Mgr.

In addition to the diamond drill work, work is going on on two other parts of the property by shaft. Manager Loomis has purchased and placed in position a hoist on the Ruddle claims and is unwatering the shaft.

That portion of the Santa Rita Development Company's property known as "The Ruddle Claims" should be noted with interest by the prospective investor. At a depth of less than eighty feet 21 cars of ore (see table below) were shipped previous to the flooding of the shaft.

On another shaft, now being sunk for development purposes on the property, copper stain and excellent indications have been encountered at less than thirty-three feet.

With three diamond drills soon to be in operation, and work going on in the two shafts above mentioned, as well as the continuation of development work in the tunnel, gives a total of six points on the property at which active work is now in operation, or will be immediately commenced.

Dr. Weed has personally picked his men, in many cases securing drillers of long experience, who formerly have been in his employ.
